Description:

Hello,

My name is Keon.

I am currently studying at UC Berkeley intending to double major in Philosophy and Psychology and minor in French.

I am native in Korean, fluent in English, and intermediate in French.

For each lesson, I have prepared a one-hour plan with complete beginner in mind. I share screenshots of the lesson plan over Skype before each lesson so students have an idea of what we will be learning next lesson. Together, we look at a series of examples that I have written in the plan to help us understand Korean grammar.

For the past two and a half years, I have taught students of various cultural backgrounds both in person and online. During those two-plus years, I read many books and online articles that provide a thorough explanation of grammatical rules and structures in hangul.

To mention a few, I read "Korean, A Comprehensive Grammar" (Jaehoon Yeon and Lucien Brown), "Korean Grammar in Use" (Ahn Jean-myung, Lee Kyung-ah, Han Hoo-young), "Learn Korean: LP's Korean Language Learning" (Luke Park), "Talk to Me in Korean Levels 1-9" as well as a PDF guide provided by Korean Education Center in Canada in order to organize the most important information in a way that I thought most helpful for my students.

At Berkeley, I am currently taking beginner and intermediate Korean classes for insights into how I can best design lesson plans for my students. I plan to take Korean 7B (modern Korean literature and culture) and Korean 10BX (focus on reading and writing) to help you as much as I can :)

I took SAT II Korean Subject test in November, 2017 and received an 800.

I will be registering during the week (December 11-17) to take a TOPIK (Test of Proficiency in Korean) test on January 13th. I am also soon taking all 5 CSET Korean subtests (I, II, III, IV, V).

Let me know when you are ready to schedule our first lesson!

I am so excited to help you out! Hope to hear from you!
